In November 2017, Weston & Sampson was selected by National Grid as an associate energy Project Expediter (PEX) in New York. Through this relationship, we are excited to offer our suite of energy conservation services to public and private clients who are located in any of the National Grid-owned electric or gas utility service territories in New York. Program participants may qualify for rebates related to energy conservation measures, resulting in savings of 50% or more of the project cost.

As a pre-qualified energy contractor, Weston & Sampson can help you identify and install energy conservation measures and maximize incentives available through National Grid. The energy related services we offer, regardless of your energy provider, include:

- Energy audits to identify opportunities for savings
- Energy efficient design for new construction
- Recommendation of appropriate energy efficiency measures
- Analysis of project economics
- Maximization of benefits and rebates of incentive programs
- Installation and service of energy saving equipment

Taking advantage of rebate programs and services can significantly reduce your energy costs.
